

An Invitation to the Aldinga Beach/Willunga South Australia, Australasian Region AGM & Conference 2025

*Collective Knowledge - An Un-tapped Resource.
The Synergy of Membership - increasing the knowledge pool by sharing the experiences and knowledge of members and locals.*

Aldinga Beach is located 45 km (30 miles) south of the beautiful city of Adelaide. The location, the traditional land of the Kurna people, lies where there is the confluence of the sea, the plains and the hills. This is where the southern Mount Lofty Ranges end in the Fleurieu Peninsula. The most southerly part of Adelaide plains, the Willunga Basin is squeezed between the waters of the Gulf of St. Vincent and the rolling hills of the Mount Lofty Ranges, the easterly backdrop of Adelaide. The Sellicks to Aldinga Beach runs for 6 kms (4 miles). The Aldinga Conservation Park, which is the only remnant of coastal scrub on the Adelaide plain, and right where we will be located for the conference.

Today this region is known as the McLaren Vale wine region known for its more than 70 wineries, its produce of grapes, olives, and its unique farm-to-table food culture.

Full shopping facilities are located at Aldinga Central shopping centre with two supermarkets and specialty shops all just a few minutes away.

Our conference venues and accommodation options are located in a cluster of Aldinga Beach homes of members, seaside dining, local member workshops and the Willunga Show Hall located 12 mins drive to the historic, vibrant, heritage township of Willunga. The hall will be our meeting place for the first 3 days where presentations will be made, the venue for the auction and open day.

Our week will include a relaxing day rail trip to the city of Adelaide and its Botanic gardens and North Terrace precinct.

Adelaide International Airport is just 50 minutes from Aldinga. We can offer airport pick up to your accommodation by arrangement with the organisers.

This conference is aimed at learning and appreciating the knowledge and skills of members in an atmosphere of sharing and conviviality. There's something in the conference for everyone! Looking forward to seeing you at Aldinga Beach. Any questions, just contact one of the organisers.
